How to Obtain a Company Number and Register an Official Address

What is a company number?

A “company number” is a unique identifier assigned to a company that wishes to register a pesticide (e.g. herbicide, rodenticide, or antimicrobial) with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). These companies are commonly called registrants.

A “company number” is also required for a company that plans to “produce” pesticides or devices. Such production requires the company to obtain a “Pesticide-Producing or Device-Producing Establishment Number”.

Background

Registrants must obtain a company number prior to registering their first product with the Agency. For subsequent products or amendment to existing registrations, the registrant must refer to this company number. (Note: registrants who plan to produce their own products will also need to obtain an “establishment number”).

Registrants or others who plan to “produce” pesticides or devices must obtain the company number first and then submit EPA Form 3540-8 (Application for Registering a Pesticide, Device, or Active Ingredient Establishment Number) to the Regional office where their company Headquarters office is located to obtain the establishment number. For foreign establishments, the Form should be submitted to EPA’s DC office. The Form can be obtained at <http://www.epa.gov/compliance/monitoring/programs/fifra/establishments.html>

The Instructions for completing the Form (also found at this web site) contain the current list of Regional and Headquarter contacts to whom the Form should be mailed.

How to request for a company number

The registrant must submit a signed letter on company letterhead to request for a company number and establish an official address with EPA. EPA will direct all future correspondence to the official address. The registrant must keep this official address record up-to-date (see Section 3 below).

Foreign registrants must designate a U.S. agent to receive correspondence and represent the registrant in matters concerning their application. U.S. registrants may also designate an agent. (Section 2 below outlines the information needed for companies using designated agents). The letter must include a statement authorizing the agent to act in all matters concerning the registration of your product with EPA. It must also include a statement acknowledging that all official correspondence from EPA will be directed to the agent.
