

Amanda K. Dallo

Attorney, Program Legal Group, Office for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Education

Amanda Dallo is an attorney with the Program Legal Group in the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights. Amanda works primarily on policy issues related to Title IX, including athletics, sexual harassment, and single-sex education.

Before joining OCR, Amanda was an associate at Drinker Biddle & Reath, where she specialized in higher education law. Prior to that, Amanda clerked for the Honorable Stephen Glickman on the D.C. Court of Appeals. Amanda earned her J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School and her B.A. in English from the George Washington University.