About the 2011 American Indian/Alaska Native Village Drinking Water Infrastructure Needs Survey

The Safe Drinking Water Act requires the USEPA, in consultation with the Indian Health Service (IHS) and Indian tribes, to prepare surveys and assess the needs of drinking water systems serving American Indians and Alaska Native Villages. The American Indian and Alaska Native Village Drinking Water Infrastructure Needs Survey (DWINS) was last conducted in 1999. Results from the survey are used in conjunction with IHS's Sanitation Deficiency System (SDS) list to determine annual USEPA regional funding allotments for the Drinking Water Tribal Set-Aside program.

The survey measures public water systems' 20-year needs for infrastructure construction, rehabilitation and replacement. Community and not-for-profit non-community (e.g. schools, office buildings) public water systems are included in the survey.

Water systems are selected randomly using a statistical method to achieve 95% confidence that the national estimate is within +/-10% of the actual need. Region 9 USEPA will survey 63 water systems, and Navajo Nation will survey 40 additional systems that it regulates.
