

To enhance the experience of the site over the experience of the building itself, the center could be integrated into the natural landforms. By locating the center along the natural drop-off of the site, a two-level facility might be created.

River Views

Also on the public level, visitors might be able to proceed from the exhibit area out onto a terrace containing additional exhibits and affording an uninterrupted view of the two rivers and plains.

The main level would contain the exhibits and other public spaces and the lower level would contain the support spaces.

Designs created by Warren Hampton of OZ Architects, Turah resident and volunteer